Courses of Study.

The Classical Course requires six years of earnest work. It has recently been enlarged, and now compares favorably with the Curricula of other Institutions. The student upon completing this course receives the degree of A. B.

The Scientific Course requires five years of Study. Eight terms of Latin are embraced in it. Greek and Hebrew are omitted. All the Sciences and the greater part of the Mathematics of the Classical Course are required in it. Civil Government, American Literature and General Geometry are this year added to this course. Its completion entitles to the degree of S. B.

The Pedagogical Course requires three years of study. In this course persons holding state certificates, or three or five year county certificates, will be credited with the studies named therein. Upon completing this course, the student is entitled to the degree of B. P.

A concise statement of the work required in the Classical, Scientific, Pedagogical and Preparatory Courses will be found on the following pages.

In the case of Civil Government and U. S. Constitution (third term Freshman and Sophomore respectively) the Sophomores will, in the spring of '94, join the Freshmen in the study of Civil Government, and in '95 the Freshmen will join the Sophomores in the study of U. S. Constitution. This remark applies also to these studies as they occur in the First and Junior years Pedagogical. The same method will also be employed with American Literature and English Literature (second term Scientific) and Greek Tragedy and Homer (second term Classical).

In the Senior year, where electives are offered, one must be chosen in addition to the three required studies. New work will be taken up.

Latin and Greek composition are studied throughout the course.

Classes will be conducted every term in English Grammar, Physical Geography, U. S. History, Physiology, Arithmetic and the first ten chapters of Wentworth's Higher Algebra. One hour each week throughout the Pedagogical Course in the History and Science of Education.

Information respecting the courses of study in Music, Art, Business, Modern Languages and Elocution, will be found elsewhere.

Tuition.

Any person of good moral character, may be admitted to any Class in the respective Literary Courses, for which such person is prepared, by the payment of tuition, (no other fees charged except a graduation fee of $5.00, payable at the beginning of the spring term of the Senior year) as follows:

Tuition for Fall Term,	$14.00
Tuition for Winter Term,	12.00
Tuition for Spring Term,	12.00

The tuition is required in advance. No student will be received ordinarily for less than half a session; nor will any student ever be excused for any reason whatever, from paying one-half the tuition of any given session in which he has entered College.

When absence is caused by protracted illness, or anything else purely providential, a proper reduction will be made, unless the student retains his standing in class. In such case, no reduction will be made for any reason.

Terms of admission to other departments will be found elsewhere.

Department of Modern Languages.

GERMAN COURSE.

FIRST YEAR—Elements of German Language, Part I and Part II; Progressive German Readings and Drill.

SEC'D YEAR—Complete German Grammar; Schiller's Wilhelm Tell; Lessing's Minna Barnhelm; German History.

THIRD YEAR—French Literature; Moliere's Misanthrope; Corneille's Le Cid; Le Francais.

In teaching Modern Languages, we aim to make our pupils ready as well as accurate in what they acquire, by combining the "Natural Method" with thorough, practical drill on the principles underlying the language taught.

TUITION.

Fall Term,	$4.50
Winter Term,	3.50
Spring Term,	3.50

COURSE OF STUDY

—IN—

Department of Music.

Rooms for this Department are tastefully finished and furnished in the College Building.

Music Lessons are given in the following branches: Piano, Organ, Voice Culture, and Theory. Theory includes Thorough Bass, Harmony, and Composition. Two lessons a week are given in each branch.

PIANO LESSONS.

Those beginning this study will be taught a correct position and touch from the first, how to play easily and gracefully, how to keep good time, how to produce good singing tones, how to play with good expression, etc.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR PIANO.

Primary Exercises and Scales.
First Book of Mechanical Studies.
Piano Movements.
Second Book of Mechanical Studies, together with appropriate Pieces, Sonatinas.
Scales and Art of Phrasing
Loschorn's Studies.
First Book, Velocity—Two or more Sonatas.
Musical Form—This includes a thorough analysis of each composition, pointing out phrases, passages, sections and periods, giving the interpretation of each of these several parts, and their relation to one another.

Second Book of Velocity—Etudes, with appropriate selections from the best composers.

ORGAN LESSONS.

Instructions are given in Church Music; the best manner of playing it; how to play with expression, and how to play all styles of Music written for the Organ.

VOICE CULTURE.

This will include study of tone and its application to words, Inhalation and Exhalation of Breath, Muscular Action, Enunciation and Delivery of Tone, Color, Timbre and Register, Resonance, Articulation, Quality, Quantity, Phrasing, Vocalizing, Expression, Musical Elocution, How to Preserve the Voice. Illustrations of the various faulty and injurious methods of singing. This branch will also include the study of appropriate solos and selections from Opera and Oratorio.

HARMONY.

Those especially who wish to become skillful Organists should acquire a profound knowledge of Harmony. It is also a profitable study for players of other instruments and for singers, enabling them to comprehend music and to enjoy its beauties in a higher degree.

On this subject a well known writer has said: "Harmony is not a study solely for composers, but for everybody who reads or hears music, so that they may understand and enjoy it. Otherwise they only gaze on the gaunt skeleton of the art without feeling the warm breath of the soul."

COMPOSITION.

The pupils in this branch will learn the Principles of Tune, Formation and Musical Form. A thorough analysis of the different forms of Composition will be given. Special attention given to Vocal Compositions.

All candidates for graduation in any of the above named branches of Music, are required to have a fair knowledge of the Theory of Music, and are expected to study Musical History and Biography at least two terms.

Pupils are not allowed to enter practice rooms except at such times as are assigned them. The strictest punctuality is expected, both in practice and in recitations.

Once every term there is a General Review, in which all pupils are expected to take part. To the careful Student these Reviews are of great value. The pupils have, at such times, a good opportunity of comparing themselves with others in their progress and style of performance; they gradually overcome embarrassment, and acquire that confidence which is so necessary in order to play or sing creditably before an audience. A musical education is of little account without this ability.

TUITION FOR PRIVATE MUSIC LESSONS.

Fall Term, Two Lessons each week,	$11.50
Fall Term, Four Lessons each week,	21.50
Winter Term, Two Lessons each week,	9.75
Winter Term, Four Lessons each week,	18.00
Spring Term, Two Lessons each week,	9.75
Spring Term, Four Lessons each week,	18.00

The above rates are by the term. Persons who take two lessons a week will receive but one the first week, and one the last week, of each term. Those taking four a week, will receive two the first, and two the last week.

Tuition for part of term, or for less than two lessons each week, at the rate of fifty cents a lesson.

Harmony is taught in classes of from two to four in each, at reduced rates.

Private lessons in Voice Culture are given at the prices for one study, as stated above. Voice Culture in classes of two, three or four, at the following rates:

TUITION FOR EACH PUPIL.

Payment invariably in advance. No deduction made for lessons missed, except in case of protracted illness of the pupil, which cases must be reported at the time, or no deduction will be made.

Books, Sheet Music, etc., furnished at reduced rates.

Students who attend for the purpose of taking extras only, are considered College Students, subject to its discipline.

Those who attend for the purpose of taking extra studies mainly, have the privilege of taking a limited number of regular studies at reduced rates.

Business Department.

In this department the instruction covers Book-keeping, Business and Ornamental penmanship, Type-writing and Shorthand. Rates of tuition furnished on application.

Art Department.

The Art Department, which has been recently added, supplies what has heretofore been a manifest lack in the College.

The art of "Oil Painting" has been justly celebrated from time immemorial. Until recently, owing to the difficulty of procuring the necessary materials in a convenient form, comparatively few have aspired to become accomplished in this direction. These difficulties having been removed, a lively impulse is now noticeable in the pursuit of art culture.

The aim of this department is to assist persons so desiring, to secure to themselves a first class accomplishment, which will enable them to beautify their homes with meritorious works of art of their own production.

Very few who have felt the pleasing and powerful influences of this home decoration in places of culture and refinement, fail to appreciate the advantage of a practical knowledge of this fascinating art.

TERMS.

Drawing, 25 cents per lesson, or $6.50 for Fall Term of College; $5 for Winter Term; $5 for Spring Term.

Oil Painting, Lustra Painting, China Painting, Pastel, each 50 cents per lesson, or $12 for Fall Term, $10 for Winter Term, $10 for Spring term.

Crayon, 60 cents per lesson, or $16 for Fall Term, $12 for Winter Term, $12 for Spring Term.

When taken by the term, the above rates are for two lessons of three hours each per week, and no reduction will be made, ordinarily, for absence from class.

Elocution.

Excellent work has been done and is being done in this department. The college has been fortunate in securing a good teacher for the department. The rates of tuition are reasonable and will be furnished on application.

General Information.

Location.

New Concord, Ohio, the seat of Muskingum College, is on the B. & O. Railroad, in Muskingum County, near the Guernsey County line. It has a population of about 1,000, and stands first in the county in per cent. of increase in population during the last decade and second in increase of wealth.

It supports six churches—two United Presbyterian, one Reformed Presbyterian, one Presbyterian, one Methodist Episcopal, and one Baptist—but no saloon. The healthfulness of the place, the moral and religious character of its people, its freedom from all that would tempt to vice and wrong-doing and from all that would tend to distract the attention from the work in hand, make it a most desirable place for the student.

THE COLLEGE.

Muskingum College was established more than half a century ago and has sent out three hundred and seven graduates—two hundred and forty-one gentlemen and sixty-six ladies. Of the gentlemen, one hundred and forty-four entered the ministry, eight became physicians and twenty-one, lawyers. At the present time, one of her graduates is president of Chicago University, Chicago, Ill.; one, of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; one, of Avalon College, Avalon, Mo.; one is professor in the Allegheny Theological Seminary; one, in the Xenia Theological Seminary; nine are professors in other colleges; three are missionaries in Egypt and two in India. Of the ladies, one is a successful doctor of medicine, two are missionaries in Egypt and three in India, and several are successful teachers.

The College has always been noted for the thorough work done. Her graduates have uniformly taken a foremost place in their classes in the Theological Seminaries and Law Schools. In this respect no other college stands higher. She has always been, and is now, more ambitious to send out thoroughly equipped and competent young men and women than to send out large numbers of graduates. The motto is "Thorough work rather than great numbers."

WORK.

At no time in the past have better results been secured that at the present. The members of the faculty are all thoroughly qualified for their places, each a specialist in his particular department, and the students able, earnest and eager to improve. Under such conditions, good work is not only possible, but assured.

GOVERNMENT.

The students coming, as they generally do, from Christian homes, possess in a high degree that sense of honor and knowledge of moral principles which insure civility, good manners and correct deportment. They conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen and there is seldom a necessity to so much as refer to the matter of government. There has not been a case of discipline for more than two years. A student whose influence is not wholesome would not be retained in the college. He would hardly care to remain where neither the faculty nor the students would tolerate any conduct but the best.

EXAMINATIONS.

New students are required to be present the first day of each term in order that their class standing may be determined by a careful examination. A thorough examination of each class is held at the close of the term, and the student who falls below 65 per cent. is conditioned until he is able to reach the required standard, which is determined by an additional examination. Students who leave college before the close of the term must take the examination upon their return, and one dollar will be charged for each branch, except where the failure to take the examination at the required time was caused by sickness. The senior examination takes place four weeks before commencement and will cover the studies pursued during the senior year. The result of each examination, except the senior and the examination upon entering, is sent to the parent or guardian.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The three literary societies are all in vigorous and successful operation. The young ladies of the Aretean vie with the young gentlemen of the Philomathean and Union Literary in their strict adherence to parliamentary usages and thoroughness of drill and criticism, and among all there is a generous and healthful rivalry that secures the best possible results. The student enters one of these societies at the beginning of the college course and leaves it at the close, a graceful, accurate writer, a polished, entertaining speaker, and a sharp, convincing debater. Here the student learns how to use his knowledge and to make it practical. Every student is required to join one of these societies.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

An active missionary society co-operates with some other colleges and seminaries in supporting a missionary, a graduate of the college, in a foreign field. It holds frequent meetings for prayer and for conference relative to its work. Contributions are entirely voluntary. The Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association each hold meetings every week for conference and prayer. Frequently they meet together for devotional purposes. The religious influence of the college is such that only a small per cent. of the students remain outside of church membership. At the close of last winter's term there was not a student in the college who was not a member of some church.

LIBRARIES AND READING ROOM.

Each society has a library containing a good selection of books. These with the college library which has recently been enlarged by liberal donations place within the reach of every student all the necessary works of reference and for the cultivation of a correct literary taste.

The reading room, supplied with the best of our periodicals and papers, affords an opportunity for keeping informed in regard to current events. Three per cent. of all tuition is set apart for supplying this literature. This fund along with the liberality of many publishers, who furnish their papers gratuitously, keeps the tables supplied with a large amount of choice reading matter from which the student may make his selection.

Our Normal School.

Our normal will begin July 10, 1893, and continue six (6) weeks.

OBJECT.

The object is to assist teachers and those preparing to teach, both to pass county examinations and to raise the standard of their efficiency as teachers.

In order to sustain the superiority of our public school system under the new laws, county boards will pass none but the highest class of applicants. It, therefore, behooves those who desire to follow this great calling to prepare for examination alone, without thought of the great benefit to be derived from thorough preparation. How much more, then, does it behoove teachers to fit themselves for the noble calling to which they aspire.

The nearer we draw to the threshold of the 20th century the more lively and progressive appearance does our educational interests assume. He who neglects his opportunities will fail to realize his possibilities.

TEXT BOOKS.

Bring all your text books for use as references. No particular ones will be used in the class room. In order to disseminate broad views of any subject, we must not narrow our instruction down to any one author. Difficult technicalities will receive due attention.

There will be at least one free lecture each week on some educational topic. School examiners and veteran educators have been engaged for this work.

School law and such subjects will receive due attention in class and otherwise.

Arrangements have been made for Elocution.

Come and be filled with the enthusiasm that characterizes the progressive teacher.

TUITION.

Tuition for the term $5.00, or for less than the term $1.00 a week.

A limited number of college studies may be pursued without extra charge.

The Concordia club, a vocal organization for the study of high grade choral music, admits to its membership, as circumstances permit, students of the college who have good voices and are good readers. The club consists of more than thirty members under the directorship of Prof. Gates, and has rendered very acceptably some of the best choruses from opera and oratorio. During the past year the club has studied choruses from Mozart, Haydn, Handel, Schumann, Gounod, Rossini, Bishop, and others. This club brings excellent advantages within the reach of students at a trifling expense.

Work of the Departments.

General.

The College offers three courses of study, the Classical, the Scientific and the Pedagogical, besides those in Music, Art, Modern Language and Elocution. The classical Course demands six years of study, the Scientific five, and the Pedagogical three. The Classical Course leads to the degree of B. A., the Scientific to the degree of B. S., and the Pedagogical to the degree of B. Pd.

In the Pedagogical Course persons holding state certificates or five year county certificates, or their equivalents, will be credited with the studies named therein. Others may receive credit for the common branches by passing our examination in them.

In the case of Civil Government and U. S. Constitution (third term Freshman and Sophomore respectively) the Sophomores will, in the spring of '95, join the Freshmen in the study of Civil Government, and in '96 the Freshmen will join the Sophomore in the study of U. S. Constitution. This remark applies also to these studies as they occur in the First and Junior years Pedagogical. The same method will also be employed with American Literature and English Literature (second term Scientific) and Greek Tradegy and Homer (second term Classical).

Classes will be conducted every term in English Grammar. Physical Geography, U. S. History, Physiology, Arithmetic and the first ten chapters of Wentworth's Higher Algebra. Students in the Pedagogical department will be required to read some work each term on the History and Science of Education, and at the close of the term take an examination.

Information respecting the courses of study in Music, Art. Modern Languages and Elocution, will be found elsewhere.

Psychology.

The Senior class recites in this branch five times a week during the Fall and Winter terms. During the fall term and one month of the Winter term the Intellect is the special subject of study, and during the remaining two months the Feelings and the Will are studied. Since self-knowledge is necessary to moral self-culture, to the highest appreciation of the best literature, and to an accurate knowledge of men and the ability to help them, the constant aim is to acquire the ability to know self.

Ethics.

The aim here is to ascertain the elements of the moral nature, the nature of virtue, and from these a correct theory of human duty. The wreck of the moral nature as testified to by consciousness is distinctly recognized, and the various schemes of reconstruction are examined and compared to find the true one. The theory of duty thus established is then applied to the discovery of duty in all the human relations.

Evidences of Christianity.

The phenomena of the Bible itself constitute the main ground of the argument. The historical and scientific accuracy of the Bible at a time when such accuracy was not found elsewhere, the unity of purpose that binds the books into the Book, and above all the character and life of the Christ and his influence on the world, are emphasized as proofs of the divine origin of the Scriptures and the Christian system. The old and tried arguments are studied as thoroughly as time will permit.

History of Philosophy.

Schwegler's History of Philosophy is the text-book used. Eighteen weeks, five recitations a week, is the time devoted to the study. Special attention is given to those systems which have had the greatest formative influence on modern thought. Theses on appointed topics are required from the class at the close.

Logic.

Schuyler's Logic is used as a text-book. Five recitations a week during twelve weeks are devoted to the study. In the field of deductive reasoning the usual method is pursued, special attention being given to the examination of formal arguments with a view to facility in detection of fallacies and in reduction of valid arguments. Original specimens of valid arguments and fallacies are brought for illustration. The philosophy of Induction is presented, and this important method of reasoning clearly explained.

Natural Theology.

The text-book used is Valentine's "Rational Theism." Besides the more usual methods of proof, the ontological and moral arguments are presented as thoroughly as the time allotted to the study will permit.

Bible.

The Juniors recite Bible History five times a week during the Fall Term. Book studies by the class are introduced freely into this work. Besides this, Bible study will be offered one hour each week to all students.

Hebrew.

Forty lessons of Harper's Inductive Method are completed, with some supplementary work on noun inflection. Special attention is given to an analytical study of verbal forms and to acquiring a vocabulary.

Greek.

During the first year's work the student is required to give earnest attention to the mastery of forms, principles of syntax, and a working vocabulary. So important is thoroughness here that the whole of the first year is given to it, in the belief that the student will thus be ready to make greater progress in reading than if he were set to reading Greek text earlier.

Study of the Grammar is also a prominent feature of the second year's work. In translations during this year the student is required to hold to a literal translation as closely as a regard for good English will permit. In connection with Plato's Apology and Memorabilia the life and teachings of Socrates receive special attention.

During the rest of the course not so much work in grammar is done in direct connection with the reading; but the grammar is studied separately by way of review. More freedom in translations is encouraged.

The term spent on the New Testament is about equally divided between gospels and epistles, attention being given to acquiring a New Testament vocabulary. Some of the most prominent words are given special study. Sight reading is emphasized here.

The Iliad gives an opportunity for the study of Grecian Mythology. The Greek stage is studied in connection with the reading of a Greek Tragedy.

In connection with the Oration on the Crown there is opportunity for the study of Athenian oratory and Athenian court procedure.

Prose composition receives its proper amount of attention.

Throughout the course, wherever passages occur in which the thought or argument is so close as not to be readily understood, the pupil is required to present and illustrate the passage in his own way.

English Language and Literature.

To the student, ability to use his own language with accuracy, elegance, and force, is of first importance; it is also essential to a liberal education that he possess a clear and somewhat comprehensive knowledge of the literature of his language.

The College seeks a more systematic and thorough culture by giving increased attention to this department.

The English language in its etymologlical, syntactical, and rhetorical forms, as well as in its idiomatic construction, receives special attention.

A thorough course in the Science of Rhetoric and the Life and Growth of Language is required of all students in the Scientific and Classical Courses.

English Literature is studied by authors. Literary masterpieces are examined as to their value and as to the special moral and social forces by which they have been inspired and developed.

In close connection with this work the lives of the authors are studied. Essays upon various important topics are assigned from different epochs and read in the class-room.

It is the aim of the work in American Literature to show what it is, how it has been developed, and how important it is to us as a people.

A brief history of the English Bible and a critical study of one book will constitute a part of next year's work in this department.

Natural Science.

CHEMISTRY.—This subject is introduced by a brief course in Chemical Physics. The effects of chemical action are so greatly influenced by physical forces, that it is believed that an accurate knowledge of them is essential to the intelligent advancement of the student in Chemistry. The philosophy of the science follows; the theory of atomicity, quantivalence, radicals, and substitution, together with the nature and constitution of acids, bases and salts being very fully explained and illustrated.

The student is made familiar with symbols and formulæ and the nomenclature of the science. Atomic and molecular weights receive special attention and the effects of temperature and pressure upon gasses, illustrated by the solution of numerous problems.

After this Descriptive Chemistry is introduced and each element taken up and studied. When possible the element is prepared and its reactions with other elements illustrated and explained. The student is expected to be able to write the empirical, rational and graphic symbols for the compounds and explain their meaning and use.

The last half of the second term is devoted to the study of the Carbon Compounds. The paraffins, alcohols, starches, sugars, benzines and organic acids receive attention and the nature and action of ferments are explained. The work in this part of the course includes the study of the alkaloids, nicotine, opium strychnine and others—their structure being given as far as possible, and their effects upon the animal body stated.

The course gives the student a good, working knowledge of both organic and inorganic Chemistry and prepares him for intelligent, profitable laboratory work. A sufficient number of experiments is made through the course to serve as a foundation for illustration and explanation. It is believed that it is not best to carry experimentation beyond this point until the student has gained such a knowledge of the principles and philosophy of the science as will enable him to do intelligent and original work in the laboratory. The unsystematic, hap-hazard kind of work sometimes required of the student before he has acquired the requisite knowledge, is misleading and delusive.

The same course is pursued in regard to Physics, Botany and other branches included under the name of Natural Science, the object being to develop an interest in the subject and a love for the work and thus to prepare the student to become an intelligent, original, independent thinker and investigator.

Mathematics.

This department is not conducted exclusively for the benefit of the few who may feel themselves gifted in the direction of mathematical celerity.

While wonderful calculating ability is a gift not incompatible with true logical vigor and therefore a gift not to be despised, it is not necessary to a thorough mastery of mathematical principles. The so-called mathematical prodigy is rarely a first rate mathematician. He certainly is not deserving the name of mathematician, in the best sense of the term, if his remarkable gifts enable him to dispense with the rationale of principles while merely producing numerical results. While the best practical methods are presented, the student is always expected to furnish the rationale.

In Higher Algebra the equations of the higher degrees are to be solved as readily as the quadratic.

The training in Geometry is thorough, and is made interesting and practical by requiring a large amount of original work from the student.

Trigonometry, Plane and Spherical, is taught according to an original method, which enables the student, with the least tax upon the memory, to make himself able to dispense with the text book while solving problems requiring the use of separate tables. He thus consults his tables free from all encumbrance.

The same plan largely extends through the subjects of Surveying and Navigation.

General Geometry is the stepping stone to the Calculus.

Original methods are freely introduced in explaining and demonstrating the principles of the Differential and Integral Calculus.

The aim in the whole course is to teach the student to reason and think for himself.

Latin.

Early in the course the aim is to get a vocabulary, and to master the principles of word relations and of sentence relations. The aim is to learn to read. Roman History and Latin composition are studied. Later in the course more attention is given to the content, and less to the form of the language. In the poets, while the versification is studied, special attention is given to the literary and rhetorical features of the writers. The students are practiced in sight reading. Roman Literature is studied in outline, with readings, reports and essays.

Political and Social Science.

Four terms are given to these branches. The student will master the first principles of these sciences and study the application of these principles to the life of society.

Civics.—In the last term of the Freshman year Civil Government in the United States is taken up. The origin and growth of our Government, local, state and national are studied. Macy's "Our Government" is used as a text-book. The work is done principally by recitations.

Constitutional Law.—One term of the Sophomore year is devoted to the study of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Ohio. Andrews' "Manual of the Constitution" is used as a basis. The work consists of recitations, readings and reports.

Economics and Sociology.—Two terms of the Junior year are given to these subjects. In the first term the leading principles are studied in Ely's Political Economy and Small's Elements of Sociology. In the second term attention is given to some of the many practical problems of Economic and social life—State Activity, Labor, Socialism, Money, Taxation etc. The work of these terms consists of recitations, discussions, reading, and reports.

History.

A thorough study of United States History is required in the early part of each of the courses.

General History in outline is made the study of the class in Cicero's orations one-half time.

English History receives also careful attention, especially those periods in which it has most to do with the history of the United States.

Historical work is also necessarily carried on in connection with many other studies.

Pedagogy.

Besides the previously mentioned work in the History and Science of education, the Pedagogical Seniors are required to take one term in Pedagogy. White's Pedagogy is the text-book used.

Common Branches.

Thorough mastery of the common branches and ten chapters of Wentworth's Higher Algebra are necessary to enter the Freshman Class Scientific; and the same with one year of Latin to enter the second year Preparatory Classical.

Musical Department.

The Musical Department is so conducted that the features of a Conservatory education are at the command of our pupils to as great an extent as possible. Our Director is a Conservatory graduate and has had several years of experience in various Conservatories as teacher, as head of department, and as Director in charge, combined with some years of experience in private teaching.

The Teacher of Organ and Harmony has had special preparation for this work, and has been chosen for her capabilities in performance and instruction.

Our Teacher of Violin has been chosen because of her particular skill as a performer and teacher. Her studies with masters of both the French and German schools of playing have given her opportunity to acquire the French brilliancy of technique and the German breadth and solidity of tone.

The Methods of Teaching.

While as a whole modeled on those followed by the accepted authorities in the musical world, will not be rigid, but will be modulated to serve the necessities of the individual pupil.

Pupils will be advanced as rapidly as consistent with thoroughness, and a desire for a mere superficial knowledge will be discouraged. The necessity for diligence will be urged and especially will careful and thorough practice be required.

The branches taught are Voice, Piano, Violin, Reed Organ, Harmony, Counterpoint, General Musical Theory, Musical History and Chorus Drill.

While pupils may make such selection of studies as they see fit, it is earnestly urged that the study of the theoretical branches be begun at once.

To retain membership in the Department, pupils must be subject to the College Rules, be diligent in study, prompt in attendance and attentive in recitation.

Public recitals by the teachers and pupils will be given as frequently as circumstances will permit, and class recitals for pupils only will occur regularly to accustom pupils to playing before others.

Voice.

This is the most natural and universal means of musical expression. Our plan is to secure first, proper breathing and tone production; second, flexibility; third, strength of tone. Sight reading is carried on during the course. The Italian method as modified by modern thought and discovery will be used in Vocal instruction. Standard Vocal studies are used as well as carefully chosen songs and selections from the oratorios and operas. Gentlemen as well as ladies are urged to cultivate the voice as a means of adding to their enjoyment and usefulness.

Piano.

The piano, that household orchestra, will be treated in a manner commensurate with its dignity and value. The foundation of piano study is flexibility of hand and arm. A correct touch is the prime essential. Following this is the understanding of musical difficulties and the proper interpretation of the composer's idea.

The work is made as musical as possible, and no more dry technical exercises are used than are absolutely necessary. As far as possible music will be taught by means of music. Hand gymnastics are used as being a quicker method of acquiring flexibility and control, and as lessening the amount of drudgery at the piano. Space will not admit a detailed statement of the works or authors used. The etudes and musical selections will be chosen with regard to their intrinsic worth. The flashy and shallow style of composition will have no place in our curriculum.

Violin.

The violin is second to no instrument in beauty of tone and musical expressiveness. A specialty will be made of laying a correct foundation of tone production and general technique. Many persons who can not own a piano or organ can easily purchase a good violin and acquire considerable skill at slight expense.

Reed Organ.

This instrument seldom receives treatment commensurate with its possibilities. It has a field of its own and a much more dignified one than is generally assigned it. In our department it is taught in a manner to bring out its best capabilities.

Harmony and Counterpoint.

These studies deal with the understanding of chord formation and combination and melody writing. While all may not use this knowledge for composition, all may use it for the proper understanding of what they play or hear. These studies will be taken gradually, so that one half to one hour per day will suffice for the work. The completion of certain required amounts of Harmony and General Theory will be required for certificate or graduation.

General Theory and Musical History.

The former study covers a great field untouched by Composition or History. Both of these studies will be required for graduation and because of their great value all pupils over fifteen years of age are urged to pursue them. The work will not be given in such a way as to require great time in study. Those preparing to teach music must know Harmony, General Theory and the outlines of Musical History or be considered incompetent. No charge will be made for the study of Musical History.

Chorus Drill.

Sight reading and chorus singing are necessary and very enjoyable parts of a musical education, and they are just as enjoyable to the person in other walks of life as to the musician. One who can sing even tolerably well is always more heartily welcome to the social circle, and is more useful in both church and social relations. A sight reading class has been formed and has made rapid progress in Music Reading.

Pupils must observe the lesson hours agreed upon.

Lessons lost by the fault or misfortune of the pupil will not be made up, but will be when the omission is caused by the teacher.

Payment will be required in advance.

The director generally can, when requested, procure music for pupils at a considerable discount from retail price.

Pianos may be rented at various rates dependent on the condition of the instrument. A fair rate is $2.50 per hour per day for the long term, and $2.00 for the short terms.

Information as to Rates of instruction in the musical branches will be found on the enclosed slip, or may be had by addressing Prof. W. F. Gates, or the President.

Art Department.

The Art Department, which has been recently added, supplies what has heretofore been a manifest lack in the College.

The art of "Oil Painting" has been justly celebrated from time immemorial. Until recently, owing to the difficulty of procuring the necessary materials in a convenient form, comparatively few have aspired to become accomplished in this direction. These difficulties having been removed, a lively impulse is now noticeable in the pursuit of art culture.

The aim of this department is to assist persons so desiring, to secure to themselves a first-class accomplishment, which will enable them to beautify their homes with meritorious works of art of their own production.

Very few who have felt the pleasing and powerful influence of this home decoration in places of culture and refinement, fail to appreciate the advantage of a practical knowledge of this fascinating art.

Terms.

Drawing, 25 cents per lesson, or $6.50 for Fall Term of College; $5 for Winter Term; $5 for Spring Term.

Oil Painting, Lustra Painting, China Painting, Pastel, each 50 cents per lesson, or $12 for Fall Term, $10 for Winter Term, $10 for Spring term.

Crayon, 60 cents per lesson, $16 for Fall Term, $12 for Winter Term, $12 for Spring Term.

When taken by the term, the above rates are for two lessons of three hours each per week, and no reduction will be made, ordinarily, for absence from class.

Department of Modern Languages.

German Course.

First Year—Elements of German Language, Part I and Part II; Progressive German Readings and Drill.

Second Year—Complete German Grammar; Schiller's Wilhelm Tell; Lessing's Minna Barnhelm; German History.

Third Year—German Prose Composition; Gœthe's Hermann and Dorothea; Gœthe's Faust; German Literature.

French Course.

First Year—Elementary French; Drill in reading, writing, grammar and conversation; Progressive French Reader.

Second Year—Complete French Grammar; Lamertine's Jeanne d'Arc; Sept Grands Auteurs XIX^{e} Siecle; French Syntax; French History.

Third Year—French Literature; Moliere's Misanthrope; Corneille's Le Cid; Le Francais.

In teaching Modern Languages, we aim to make our pupils ready as well as accurate in what they acquire, by combining the "Natural Method" with thorough, practical drill on the principles underlying the language taught.

Tuition.

Fall Term	$4.50.
Winter Term	3.50.
Spring Term	3.50.

Elocution.

Among the various and multiplying subjects of study educators have come to recognize the place and power of Expression, as constituting at once the test and training of the whole man. Men are estimated not for what the world gives to them, but for what they give to the world. In order to make our knowledge available, we must acquire the means for its conveyance and application. Correct Elocutionary training can best furnish this means. The terms are made very reasonable, and will be furnished on application.

Summer Term.

JULY 10th to AUGUST 17th, 1894.

Normal Department.

THE OBJECT is to assist teachers and those preparing to teach both to pass county examinations and to raise the standard of their efficiency as teachers. Accordingly not only will the common branches be thoroughly taught, but the recitations will be conducted so as to serve as models for teachers in their own classes. Many teachers are now giving themselves a thorough education. It therefore remains for others to choose between thorough preparation and a poor position or none at all.

Ten special lectures will be given by Professor Graham on subjects connected with the teacher's work.

Bring all the books you have on the studies you wish to pursue. Special attention will be given to test questions. TUITION for the common branches, five dollars ($5.00.) Information given by C. M. Swingle, President Muskingum County Teachers' Institute.

College Department.

AIM.—To give an opportunity to begin college studies or make up deficiencies therein, to prepare students for Fall Term work, and to do special work in college studies.

There are many young people who could start regularly in the Fall, and be regular throughout the course, if some two or three studies could be had before the beginning of the Fall term.

Some who are in college, but who must be absent part of the time to earn the means for further attendance, will find the opportunity to make up their deficiencies, and hold place in their classes.

Many who feel that they need review in certain branches, or who wish to do special work, have an opportunity to do so. All such persons are earnestly requested to call on or write to Prof. Gray or Prof. Graham for full information.

Tuition for the college branches.

For one College study and Normal branches	$6.00.
" two " " " " " "	7.00.
" one " " alone	4.00.
" two " " "	6.00.
" three " " "	8.00.

Hall of the Philomathean Society.

Admission to the College.

1. If the applicant is not known to some member of the Faculty, he should bring certificates of good character.

2. An applicant from another college of good standing will be given without examination the rank in this college to which the work he has done entitles him. He should bring a certificate of honorable dismissal, stating to what class he belonged, together with a copy of the course he was pursuing.

(2) Applicants from the Barnesville, Cambridge, New Concord, Zanesville, and Dresden High Schools, and Fultonham Academy, and from other high schools and academies whose work the Faculty may accept, will be given credit without examination for the work they have done. They should bring certificates showing the studies pursued, the time given to each, the text-books used, and the grades earned.

(3) Applicants who are not included under (1) and (2), but who hold teachers' certificates, are requested to bring them. These will be used to determine the extent and nature of the examinations required.

(4) All others will have their standing determined by examination.

(5) Credits and deficits will be balanced in determining entrance rank.

Promotions.

Students will be advanced from any class to the next higher, if they have no uncompleted studies back of the former, and not more than three uncompleted studies in it. This rule applies to all promotions except that from Junior to Senior. For this there must be no uncompleted studies back of the Junior year, and not more than two in it.

In promotions credits will not be balanced against deficits.

When the student enters, his rank, with his deficits and credits, is entered on the records. From this time on, an accurate entry is made of his work each term, the grade both in recitation and examination being recorded. Grading is on the scale of 100. A grade of less than 70 in recitation will not entitle the student to examination with his class, and study must be taken again. If the student earns less than 65 in examination, he will be required to review privately and take another examination or take the study again, at the discretion of the professor in charge.

Tuition.

Any person of good moral character, may be admitted to any Class in the respective Literary Courses, for which such person is prepared, by the payment of tuition, (no other fees charged except a graduation fee of $5.00, payable at the beginning of the spring term of the Senior year) as follows:

Tuition for Fall Term	$14.00.
Tuition for Winter Term	12.00.
Tuition for Spring Term	12.00.

The Tuition is required in advance. No student will be received ordinarily for less than half a session; nor will any student ever be excused for any reason whatever, from paying one-half the tuition of any given session in which he has entered College.

When absence is caused by protracted illness, or anything else purely providential, a proper reduction will be made, unless the student retains his standing in class. In such case, no reduction will be made for any reason.

Terms of admission to other departments will be found elsewhere.

General Information.

Location.

New Concord, Ohio, the seat of Muskingum College, is on the B. & O. Railroad, in Muskingum County, near the Guernsey County line. It has a population of about 1,000, and stands first in the county in per cent. of increase in population during the last decade and second in increase of wealth.

It supports six churches—two United Presbyterian, one Reformed Presbyterian, one Presbyterian, one Methodist Episcopal, and one Baptist—but no saloon. The healthfulness of the place, the moral and religious character of its people, its freedom from all that would tempt to vice and wrong-doing and from all that would tend to distract the attention from the work in hand, make it a most desirable place for the student.

The College.

Muskingum College was established more than half a century ago and has sent out three hundred and twenty-five graduates

—two hundred and fifty-six gentlemen and sixty-nine ladies. Of the gentlemen, one hundred and forty-four entered the ministry, eight became physicians and twenty-one lawyers. At the present time, one of her graduates is president of Chicago University, Chicago, Ill.; one, Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; one, Avalon College, Avalon, Mo.; one is professor in the Allegheny Theological Seminary; one, in the Xenia Theological Seminary; nine are pro-professors in other colleges; three are missionaries in Egypt and one in India. Of the ladies, one is a successful doctor of medicine, two are missionaries in Egypt and three in India, and many are successful teachers.

The College has always been noted for the thorough work done. Her graduates have uniformly taken a foremost place in their classes in the Theological Seminaries and Law Schools. In this respect no other college stands higher. She has always been, and is now, more ambitious to send out thoroughly equipped and competent young men and women than to send out large numbers of graduates. The motto is "Thorough work rather than great numbers."

Work.

At no time in the past have better results been secured than at the present. The members of the Faculty are all thoroughly qualified for their places, each a specialist in his particular department, and the students able, earnest and eager to improve. Under such conditions, good work is not only possible, but assured.

Government.

The students coming, as they generally do, from Christian homes, possess in a high degree that sense of honor and knowledge of moral principles which insure civility, good manners and correct deportment. They conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen and there is seldom a necessity to so much as refer to the matter of government. A student whose influence is not wholesome would not be retained in the college.

Examinations.

New students are required to be present the first day of each term in order that their class standing may be determined by a careful examination. A thorough examination of each class is held at the close of the term. Students who leave college before the close of the term must take the examination upon their return, and one dollar will be charged for each branch, except where the failure to take the examination at the required time was caused by sickness. The senior examination takes place four weeks before commencement and will cover the studies pursued during the senior year. The result of each examination, except the senior and the examination upon entering, is sent to the parent or guardian.

Literary Societies.

The three literary societies are all in vigorous and successful operation. The young ladies of the Aretean vie with the young gentlemen of the Philomathean and Union Literary in their strict adherence to parliamentary usages and thoroughness of drill and criticism, and among all there is a generous and healthful rivalry that secures the best possible results. Here the student learns how to use his knowledge and to make it practical. Every student is required to join one of these societies.

Religious Societies.

An active missionary society co-operates with some other colleges and seminaries in supporting a missionary, a graduate of the college, in a foreign field. It holds frequent meetings for prayer and for conference relative to its work. Contributions are entirely voluntary. The Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association each hold meetings every week for conference and prayer. Frequently they meet together for devotional purposes. The religious influence of the college is such that only a small per cent. of the students remain outside of church membership.

Libraries and Reading Rooms.

Each society has a library containing a good selection of books. These with the college library which has recently been enlarged by liberal donations place within the reach of every student all the necessary works of reference and for the cultivation of a correct literary taste.

The reading room, supplied with the best of our periodicals and papers, affords an opportunity for keeping informed in regard to current events. Three per cent. of all tuition in the Literary department is set apart for supplying this literature. This fund along with the liberality of many publishers, who furnish their papers gratuitiously, keeps the tables supplied with a large amount of choice reading matter.

Yearly Expenses.

Tuition, including all expenses, except for graduation and special examination fees,	$38.00
Rent, for furnished rooms,	19.00
Cooking,	19.00
Provisions,	38.00
Fuel and Light,	6.00

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENTS.

GENERAL.

The College offers three courses of study, the Classical, the Scientific and the Pedagogical, besides those in Music, Art, Modern Languages and Elocution. The Classical Course demands six years of study, the Scientific five, and the Pedagogical three. The Classical Course leads to the degree of B. A., the Scientific to the degree of B. S., and the Pedagogical to the degree of B. Pd.

In the Pedagogical Course persons holding state certificates, or five year county certificates, or their equivalents, will be credited with the studies named therein. Others may receive credit for the common branches by passing our examination in them.

In the case of Civil Government and U. S. Constitution (third term Freshman and Sophomore respectively) the Freshmen will, in the spring of '96, join the Sophomores in the study of the United States Constitution, and in '97 the Sophomores will join the Freshmen in the study of Civil Government.

This remark applies also to these studies as they occur in the First and Junior years Pedagogical. The same method will also be employed with American Literature and English Literature (second term Scientific) and Greek Tradegy and Homer (second term Classical).

Classes will be conducted every term in English Grammar, Physical Geography, U. S. History, Physiology, Arithmetic and the first eleven chapters of Wentworth's Higher Algebra. Students in the Pedagogical department will be required to read some work each term on the History and Science of Education, and at the close of the term take an examination.

Information respecting the courses of study in Music, Art, Modern Languages and Elocution will be found elsewhere.

PSYCHOLOGY.

The Senior class recites in this branch five times a week during the Fall and Winter terms. During the Fall term and one month of the Winter term the Intellect is the special subject of study, and during the remaining two months the Feelings and the Will are studied. Since self-knowledge is necessary to moral self-culture, to the highest appreciation of the best literature, and to an accurate knowledge of men and the ability to help them, the constant aim is to acquire the ability to know self.

ETHICS.

The aim here is to ascertain the elements of the moral nature, the nature of virtue, and from these a correct theory of human duty. The wreck of the moral nature as testified to by consciousness is distinctly recognized, and the various schemes of reconstruction are examined and compared to find the true one. The theory of duty thus established is then applied to the discovery of duty in all the human relations.

EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY.

The phenomena of the Bible itself constitute the main ground of the argument. The historical and scientific accuracy of the Bible at a time when such accuracy was not found elsewhere, the unity of purpose that binds the books into the Book, and above all the character and life of the Christ and his influence on the world, are emphasized as proofs of the divine origin of the Scriptures and the Christian system. The old and tried arguments are studied as thoroughly as time will permit.

History of Philosophy.

Schwegler's History of Philosophy is the text-book used. Eighteen weeks, five recitations a week, is the time devoted to the study. Special attention is given to those systems which have had the greatest formative influence on modern thought. Theses on appointed topics are required from the class at the close.

Logic.

Schuyler's Logic is used as a text-book. Five recitations a week during twelve weeks are devoted to the study. In the field of deductive reasoning the usual method is pursued, special attention being given to the examination of formal arguments with a view to facility in detection of fallacies and in reduction of valid arguments. Original specimens of valid arguments and fallacies are brought for illustration. The philosophy of deduction is presented, and this important method of reasoning clearly explained.

Natural Theology.

The text-book used is Valentine's "Rational Theism." Besides the more usual methods of proof, the ontological and moral arguments are presented as thoroughly as the time allotted to the study will permit.

Bible.

The Juniors recite Bible History five times a week during the Fall Term. Book studies by the class are introduced freely into this work. Besides this, Bible study will be offered one hour each week to all students.

Hebrew.

Forty lessons of Harper's Inductive Method are completed, with some supplementary work on noun inflection. Special attention is given to an analytical study of verbal forms and to acquiring a vocabulary.

HALL OF THE PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

GREEK.

During the first year's work the student is required to give earnest attention to the mastery of forms, principles of syntax, and a working vocabulary. So important is thoroughness here that the whole of the first year is given to it, in the belief that the student will thus be ready to make greater progress in reading than if he were set to reading Greek text earlier.

Study of the grammar is also a prominent feature of the second year's work. In translations during this year the student is required to hold to a literal translation as closely as a regard for good English will permit. In connection with Plato's Apology and Memorabilia the life and teachings of Socrates receive special attention.

During the rest of the course not so much work in grammar is done in direct connection with the reading; but the grammar is studied separately by way of review. More freedom in translation is encouraged.

The term spent on the New Testament is about equally divided between gospels and epistles, attention being given to acquiring a New Testament vocabulary. Some of the most prominent words are given special study. Sight reading is emphasized here.

The Iliad gives an opportunity for the study of Grecian Mythology. The Greek stage is studied in connection with the reading of a Greek Tragedy.

In connection with the Oration on the Crown there is opportunity for the study of Athenian oratory and Athenian court procedure.

Prose composition receives its proper amount of attention.

Throughout the course, wherever passages occur in which the thought or argument is so close as not to be readily understood, the pupil is required to present and illustrate the passage in his own way.

English Language and Literature.

To the student, ability to use his own language with accuracy, elegance, and force, is of first importance; it is also essential to a liberal education that he possess a clear and somewhat comprehensive knowledge of the literature of his language.

The College seeks a more systematic and thorough culture by giving increased attention to this department.

The English language in its etymological, syntactical, and rhetorical forms, as well as in its idiomatic construction, receives special attention.

A thorough course in the Science of Rhetoric and the Life and Growth of Language is required of all students in the Scientific and Classical Courses.

English Literature is studied by authors. Literary masterpieces are examined as to their value and as to the special moral and social forces by which they have been inspired and developed.

In close connection with this work the lives of the authors are studied. Essays upon various important topics are assigned from different epochs and read in the class-room.

It is the aim of the work in American Literature to show what it is, how it has been developed, and how important it is to us as a people.

A brief history of the English Bible and a critical study of one book will constitute a part of next year's work in this department.

NATURAL SCIENCE.

Chemistry—This subject is introduced by a brief course in Chemical Physics. The effects of chemical action are so greatly influenced by physical forces, that it is believed that an accurate knowledge of them is essential to the intelligent advancement of the student in Chemistry. The philosophy of the science follows; the theory of atomicity, quantivalence, radicals and substitution, together with the nature and constitution of acids, bases and salts being very fully explained and illustrated.

The student is made familiar with symbols and formulæ and the nomenclature of the science. Atomic and molecular weights receive special attention and the effects of temperature and pressure upon gases, illustrated by the solution of numerous problems.

After this Descriptive Chemistry is introduced and each element taken up and studied. When possible the element is prepared and its reactions with other elements illustrated and explained. The student is expected to be able to write the empirical, rational and graphic symbols for the compounds and explain their meaning and use.

The last half of the second term is devoted to the study of the Carbon Compounds. The paraffins, alcohols, starches, sugars, benzenes and organic acids receive attention and the nature and action of ferments are explained. The work in this part of the course includes the study of the alkaloids, nicotine, opium, strychnine and others—their structure being given as far as possible, and their effects upon the animal body stated.

The course gives the student a good, working knowledge of both organic and inorganic Chemistry, and prepares him for intelligent, profitable laboratory work. A sufficient number of experiments is made through the course to serve as a foundation for illustration and explanation. It is believed that it is not best to carry experimentation beyond this point until the student has gained such a knowledge of the principles and philosophy of the science as will enable him to do intelligent and original work in the laboratory. The unsystematic, hap-hazard kind of work sometimes required of the student before he has acquired the requisite knowledge,is misleading and delusive.

The same course is pursued in regard to Physics, Botany and other branches included under the name of Natural Science, the object being to develop an interest in the subject and a love for the work, and thus to prepare the student to become an intelligent, original, independent thinker and investigator.

MATHEMATICS.

This department is not conducted exclusively for the benefit of the few who may feel themselves gifted in the direction of mathematical celerity.

While wonderful calculating power is a gift not incompatible with true logical vigor and therefore a gift not to be despised, it is not necessary to a thorough mastery of mathematical principles. The so-called mathematical prodigy is rarely a first rate mathematician. He certainly is not deserving the name of mathematician, in the best sense of the term, if his remarkable gifts enable him to dispense with the rationale of principles while merely producing numerical results. While the best practical methods are presented, the student is always expected to furnish the rationale.

In Higher Algebra the equations of the higher degrees are to be solved as readily as the quadratic.

The training in Geometry is thorough, and is made interesting and practical by requiring a large amount of original work from the student.

Trigonometry, Plane and Spherical, is taught according to an original method, which enables the student with the least tax upon the memory, to make himself able to dispense with the text book while solving problems requiring the use of separate tables. He thus consults his tables free from all encumbrance. The same plan largely extends through the subjects of Surveying and Navigation.

General Geometry is the stepping stone to the Calculus.

Original methods are freely introduced in explaining and demonstrating the principles of the Differential and Integral Calculus.

The aim in the whole course is to teach the student to reason and think for himself.

LATIN.

Early in the course the aim is to get a vocabulary, and to master the principles of word relations and of sentence relations. The aim is to learn to read. Roman History and Latin composition are studied. Later in the course more attention is given to the content, and less to the form of the language. In the poets, while the versification is studied, special attention is given to the literary and rhetorical features of the writers. The students are practiced in sight reading. Roman Literature is studied in outline, with readings, reports and essays.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

Four terms are given to these branches. The student will master the first principles of these sciences and study the application of these principles to the life of society.

CIVICS—In the last term of the Freshman year Civil Government in the United States is taken up. The origin and growth of our Government, local, state and national, are studied. Macy's "Our Government" is used as a text book. The work is done principally by recitations.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW—One term of the Sophomore year is devoted to the study of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Ohio. Andrews'

"Manual of the Constitution" is used as a basis. The work consists of recitations, readings and reports

ECONOMICS AND SOCIOLOGY—Two terms of the Junior year are given to these subjects. In the first term the leading principles are studied in Ely's Political Economy and Small's Elements of Sociology. In the second term attention is given to some of the many practical problems of Economic and Social Life—State Activity, Labor, Socialism, Money, Taxation, etc. The work of these terms consists of recitations, discussions, reading and reports.

HISTORY.

A thorough study of United States History is required in the early part of each of the courses.

General History in outline is made the study of the class in Cicero's orations one-half time.

English History receives also careful attention, especially those periods in which it has most to do with the history of the United States.

Historical work is also necessarily carried on in connection with many other studies.

PEDAGOGY.

Besides the previously mentioned work in the History and Science of education, the Pedagogical Seniors are required to take one term in Pedagogy. White's Pedagogy is the text-book used.

COMMON BRANCHES.

Thorough mastery of the common branches and eleven chapters of Wentworth's Higher Algebra are necessary to enter the Freshman Class Scientific; and the same with one year of Latin to enter the second year Preparatory Classical.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The Musical Department is so conducted that the features of a conservatory education are at the command of our pupils to as great an extent as possible.

THE METHODS OF TEACHING.

While as a whole modeled on those followed by the accepted authorities in the musical world, will not be rigid, but will be modulated to serve the necessities of the individual pupil.

Pupils will be advanced as rapidly as consistent with thoroughness, and a desire for mere superficial knowledge will be discouraged. The necessity for diligence will be urged and especially will careful and thorough practice be required.

The branches taught are VOICE, PIANO, REED ORGAN, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, GENERAL MUSICAL THEORY, MUSICAL HISTORY, CHORUS DRILL, VIOLIN, VIOLINCELLO, VIOLA, GUITAR AND MANDOLIN.

While pupils may make such selection of studies as they see fit, it is earnestly urged that the study of the theoretical branches be begun at once.

To retain membership in the Department, pupils must be subject to the College Rules, be diligent in study, prompt in attendance and attentive in recitation.

Public recitals by the teachers and pupils will be given as frequently as circumstances will permit, and class recitals for pupils only will occur regularly to accustom pupils to playing before others.

VOICE.

This is the most natural and universal means of musical expression. Our plan is to secure, first, proper breathing and tone production; second, flexibility; third, strength of tone. Sight reading is carried on during the course. The Italian method, as modified by modern thought and discovery, will be used in Vocal Instruction. Standard Vocal studies are used as well as carefully chosen songs and selections from the oratorios and operas. Gentlemen as well as ladies are urged to cultivate the voice as a means of adding to their enjoyment and usefulness.

PIANO.

The Piano, that household orchestra, will be treated in a manner commensurate with its dignity and value. The foundation of piano study is flexibility of hand and arm. A correct touch is the prime essential. Following this is the understanding of musical difficulties and the proper interpretation of the composer's idea.

The work is made as musical as possible, and no more dry and technical exercises are used than are absolutely necessary. As far as possible music will be taught by means of music. Hand gymnastics are used, as being a quicker method of acquiring flexibility and control, and as lessening the amount of drudgery at the piano. Space will not admit a detailed statement of the works or authors used. The etudes and musical selections will be chosen with regard to their intrinsic worth. The flashy and shallow style of composition will have no place in our curriculum.

REED ORGAN.

This instrument seldom receives treatment commensurate with its possibilities. It has a field of its own, and a much more dignified one than is generally assigned to it. In our department it is taught in a manner to bring out its best capabilities.

HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT.

These studies deal with the understanding of chord formation and combination and melody writing. While all may not use this knowledge for composition, all may use it for the proper understanding of what they play or hear. These studies will be taken gradually, so that one-half to one hour a day will suffice for the work. The completion of certain required amounts of Harmony and General Theory will be required for certificate or graduation.

GENERAL THEORY AND MUSICAL HISTORY.

The former study covers a great field untouched by Composition or History. Both of these studies will be required for graduation and because of their great value all pupils over fifteen years of age are urged to pursue them. The work will not be given in such a way as to require great time in study. Those preparing to teach music must know Harmony, General Theory and the outlines of Musical History or be considered incompetent.

CHORUS DRILL.

Sight reading and chorus singing are necessary and very enjoyable parts of a musical education, and they are just as enjoyable to the person in other walks of life as to the musician. One who can sing, even tolerably well, is always more heartily welcome to the social circle, and is more useful in both church and social relations.

VIOLIN.

This king of instruments is taught on a thorough and scientific basis, by a teacher who has studied under masters of the French and German Schools, special pains being taken to lay a correct foundation of tone production and general technique.

The work is made as musical as possible, and no more technical exercises are used than are absolutely necessary.

A good violin can be purchased, and a fair knowledge of the instrument obtained at a slight expense.

GUITAR AND MANDOLIN.

These two instruments rank among the first for home amusement, the guitar being gentle and soothing in tone, the mandolin bright and sparkling.

Both are taught so as to bring out their best capabilities.

Pupils must observe the lesson hours agreed upon.

Lessons lost by the fault or misfortune of the pupil will not be made up, but will be when the omission is caused by the teacher.

Payment will be required in advance.

The director generally can, when requested, procure music for pupils at a considerable discount from the retail price.

Pianos may be rented at various rates, dependent on the condition of the instrument. A fair rate is $2.50 per hour per day for the long term, and $2.00 for the short terms.

Information as to Rates of Instruction in the musical branches may be had by addressing the President.

ART DEPARTMENT.

The Art Department, which has been recently added, supplies what has heretofore been a manifest lack in the College.

The art of "Oil Painting" has been justly celebrated from time immemorial. Until recently, owing to the difficulty of procuring the necessary materials in a convenient form, comparatively few have aspired to become accomplished in this direction. These difficulties having been removed, a lively impulse is now noticeable in the pursuit of art culture.

The aim of this department is to assist persons so desiring, to secure to themselves a first-class accomplishment, which will enable them to beautify their homes with meritorious works of art of their own production.

Very few who have felt the pleasing and powerful influence of this home decoration in places of culture and refinement, fail to appreciate the advantage of a practical knowledge of this fascinating art.

TERMS.

Drawing, 25 cents per lesson, or $6.50 for Fall Term of College; $5.00 for Winter Term; $5.00 for Spring Term.

Oil Painting, Lustra Painting, China Painting, Pastel, each 50 cents per lesson, or $12.00 for Fall Term; $10.00 for Winter Term; $10 00 for Spring Term.

Crayon, 60 cents per lesson, or $16.00 for Fall Term; $12.00 for Winter Term; $12.00 for Spring Term.

When taken by the term, the above rates are for two lessons of three hours each per week, and no reduction will be made, ordinarily, for absence from class.

TUITION IN CLASSES OF SIX OR MORE:

Fall Term	$4 50.
Winter Term	3.50.
Spring Term	3 50.

ELOCUTION.

Among the various and multiplying subjects of study educators have come to recognize the place and power of Expression, as constituting at once the test and training of the whole man. Men are estimated not for what the world gives to them, but for what they give to the world. In order to make our knowledge available, we must acquire the means for its conveyance and application. Correct Elocutionary training can best furnish this means. The terms are made very reasonable, and will be furnished on application.

SUMMER TERM.

JULY 10TH TO AUGUST 17TH, 1895.

PROF. J. A. GRAY, PH. D. PROF. C. M. SWINGLE, B. PD.
PROF. C. J. MARSHALL, B. A.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

The Object is to assist teachers and those preparing to teach both to pass county examinations and to raise the standard of their efficiency as teachers. Accordingly not only will the common branches be thoroughly taught, but the recitations will be so conducted as to serve as models for teachers in their own classes. Many teachers are now giving themselves a thorough education. It therefore remains for others to choose between thorough preparation and a poor position or none at all.

Special Lectures will be given on subjects connected with the teacher's work.

Bring all the books you have on the studies you wish to pursue. Special attention will be given to test questions. Tuition for the common branches, five dollars [$5.00]. Information given by Prof. C. M. Swingle, B. Pd., President Muskingum County Teachers' Association.

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.

AIM:—To give an opportunity to begin college studies, or make up deficiencies therein, to prepare students for Fall Term work, and to do special work in college studies.

There are many young people who could start regularly in the Fall, and be regular throughout the course, if some two or three studies could be had before the beginning of the Fall Term.

Some who are in college, but who must be absent part of the time to earn the means for further attendance, will find the opportunity to make up their deficiencies, and hold place in their classes.

Many who feel that they need review in certain branches, or who wish to do special work, have an opportunity to do so. All such persons are earnestly requested to call on or write to Prof. Gray or the President for full information.

TUITION FOR THE COLLEGE BRANCHES:

For one	College study and Normal Branches,	$6.00
For two	College studies and Normal Branches,	7.00
For one	College study alone	4 00
For two	College studies alone	6.00
For three	College studies alone	8.00

ADMISSION TO THE COLLEGE.

1. If the applicant is not known to some member of the Faculty, he should bring certificates of good character.

2. An applicant from another college of good standing will be given, without examination, the rank in this college to which the work he has done entitles him. He should bring a certificate of honorable dismissal, stating to what class he belonged, together with a copy of the course he was pursuing.

(2). Applicants from the Barnesville, Cambridge, New Concord, Zanesville, and Dresden High Schools, and Fultonham Academy, and from other high schools and academies whose work the Faculty may accept, will be given credit without examination for the work they have done. They should bring certificates showing the studies pursued, the time given to each, the text-books used, and the grades earned.

(3). Applicants who are not included under (1) and (2), but who hold teachers' certificates, are requested to bring them. These will be used to determine the extent and nature of the examinations required.

(4). All others will have their standing determined by examination.

(5). Credits and deficits will be balanced in determining entrance rank.

PROMOTIONS.

Students will be advanced from any class to the next higher, if they have no uncompleted studies back of the former, and not more than three uncompleted studies in it. This rule applies to all promotions except that from Junior to Senior. For this there must be no uncompleted studies back of the Junior year, and not more than two in it.

In promotions credits will not be balanced against deficits.

When the student enters, his rank, with his deficits and credits, is entered on the records. From this time on an accurate entry is made of his work each term, the grade both in recitation and examination being recorded. Grading is on the scale of 100. A grade of less than 70 in recitation will not entitle the student to examination with his class, and the study must be taken again. If the student earns less than 65 in examination, he will be required to review privately and take another examination, or take the study again, at the discretion of the professor in charge.

TUITION.

Any person of good moral character, may be admitted to any Class in the respective Literary Courses, for which such person is prepared, by the payment of tuition, (no other fees charged except a graduation fee of $5.00, payable at the beginning of the Spring Term of the Senior year) as follows:

Tuition for Fall Term	$14.00.
Tuition for Winter Term	12.00.
Tuition for Spring Term	12.00.

The tuition is required in advance. No student will be received ordinarily for less than half a session; nor will any student ever be excused for any reason whatever, from paying one-half the tuition of any given session, in which he has entered college.

When absence is caused by protracted illness, or anything else purely providential, a proper reduction will be made, unless the student retains his standing in class. In such case, no reduction will be made for any reason.

Terms of admission to other departments will be found elsewhere.

HALL OF THE UNION LITERARY SOCIETY.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION.

New Concord, Ohio, the seat of Muskingum College, is on the B. & O. Railroad, in Muskingum County, near the Guernsey County line. It has a population of about 1,000, and stands first in the county in per cent. of increase in population during the last decade, and second in increase of wealth.

It supports six churches—two United Presbyterian, one Reformed Presbyterian, one Presbyterian, one Methodist Episcopal, and one Baptist, but no saloon. The healthfulness of the place, the moral and religious character of its people, its freedom from all that would tempt to vice and wrong-doing and from all that would tend to distract the attention from the work in hand, make it a most desirable place for the student.

THE COLLEGE.

Muskingum College was established more than half a century ago, and has sent out three hundred and forty-four graduates—two hundred and sixty-nine gentlemen and seventy-five ladies. Of the gentlemen, one hundred and fifty-two entered the ministry, eight became physicians and twenty-one lawyers. At the present time, of her male graduates one is president of the Chicago University, Chicago, Ill.; one of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; one is professor in the Allegheny Theological Seminary; one in the Xenia Theological Seminary; nine are professors in other colleges; three are missionaries in Egypt, and one in India. Of the ladies, one is a successful doctor of medicine, two are missionaries in Egypt, three in India, one in Japan, and many are successful teachers.

The College has always been noted for the thorough work done. Her graduates have uniformly taken a foremost place in their classes in the Theological Seminaries and Law Schools. In this respect no college stands higher. She has always had, and has now, more ambition to send out thoroughly equipped and competent young men and women than to send out large numbers of graduates. The motto is "Thorough work rather than great numbers."

WORK.

At no time in the past have better results been secured than at the present. The members of the Faculty are all thoroughly qualified for their places, each a specialist in his department, and the students able, earnest and eager to improve. Under such conditions, good work is not only possible, but assured.

GOVERNMENT.

The students coming, as they generally do, from Christian homes, possess in a high degree that sense of honor and knowledge of moral principles which insure civility, good manners and correct deportment. They conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen and there is seldom a necessity to so much as refer to the matter of government. A student whose influence is not wholesome would not be retained in the college.

EXAMINATIONS.

New students are required to be present the first day of each term in order that their class standing may be determined by a careful examination. A thorough examination of each class is held at the close of the term. Students who leave college before the close of the term must take the examination upon their return, and one dollar will be charged for each branch, except where failure to take the examination at the required time was caused by sickness. The senior examination takes place four weeks before commencement and will cover the studies pursued during the senior year. The result of each examination, except the senior and the examination upon entering, is sent to the parent or guardian.

Literary Societies.

The three literary societies are all in vigorous and successful operation. The young ladies of the Aretean vie with the young gentlemen of the Philomathean and Union Literary in their strict adherence to parliamentary usages and thoroughness of drill and criticism, and among all there is a generous and healthful rivalry that secures the best possible results. Here the student learns how to use his knowledge and to make it practical. Every student is required to join one of these societies.

Religious Societies.

An active missionary society co-operates with some other colleges and seminaries in supporting a missionary, a graduate of the college, in a foreign field. It holds frequent meetings for prayer and for conference relative to its work. Contributions are entirely voluntary. The Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association each hold meetings every week for conference and prayer. Frequently they meet together for devotional purposes. The religious influence of the college is such that only a small per cent. of the students remain outside of church membership.

Libraries and Reading-Room.

By the liberality of the alumni we have been enabled to fit up an excellent library room. Our shelves have also received liberal donations of books during the year. Each literary society has a library containing a good selection of books.

The reading room, supplied with the best of our periodicals and papers, affords an opportunity for keeping informed in regard to current events. Three per cent. of all tuition in the Literary department is set apart for supplying this literature. This fund along with the liberality of many publishers, who furnish their papers gratuitously, keeps the tables supplied with a large amount of choice reading matter.

YEARLY EXPENSES.

TUITION, including all expenses, except for graduation and special examinations fees,	$38 00
RENT, for furnished rooms,	19 00
